EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Disaster relief organizations vary widely in their ability to respond to major disasters. Differences in positioning or response capacity are often trumped by an organization's brand recognition. The most well-known organizations usually raise the most money.

At the six-month and one-year anniversaries of disaster events, news stories emerge about the successes and shortfalls of the relief and recovery efforts. Questions often focus on how much was raised and spent. The accountability stories are familiar and often too late.

Once money is raised, it is hard to track and measure its effectiveness for relief efforts.

Ultimately, organizations set their own rules regarding how funds are raised, earmarked, allocated, and spent. On their fundraising pages, organizations dictate the "fine print" below the picture of a child surrounded by earthquake rubble. Despite donors' best intentions, only a small percentage of the funds intended for Nepal earthquake relief and recovery will ever make it there.

This report focuses on organizations that solicited or received donations after Nepal's April and May 2015 earthquakes and examines where the funds ultimately go.

Section One provides background on Disaster Accountability Project's purpose and goals.

Section Two explores the manner by which relief organizations solicited and raised online donations after the Nepal earthquakes. A team of DAP volunteers reviewed relief organization websites and other online appeals, and determined, based on the language of each site, whether organizations were clear and specific about their intended and actual use of the funds raised.

Section Three offers a look at self-reported data by over fifty organizations. In addition to the full-text survey responses, Section Three offers tables and analysis that will allow survivors, donors, and all other stakeholders to compare and contrast the activities and involvement of various Nepali Civil Society, Nepali Diaspora, and International Organizations. Just as important as the data collected is the data missing. Unfortunately, too many organizations in the disaster relief/humanitarian aid sector (or industry) lack basic transparency and often forget that as NGOs, they have a mandate to be accountable to the public in addition to their largest donors.

The Annexes to this report contain related tables, lists, and the full survey responses DAP received.

SECTION I: INTRODUCTION

Disaster Accountability Project (DAP) saves lives and reduces suffering after disasters by maximizing the impact of preparedness, response, and relief through citizen oversight and engagement, policy research and advocacy, and public education.

DAP is the leading nonprofit organization that provides long-term independent oversight of disaster management systems.

DAP engages a dedicated community to advance policy research and advocacy, promote transparency, and encourage the public to participate in oversight, community-based organizing, and discussions about disaster preparedness and relief.

Dedicated citizen oversight is necessary to ensure preparedness, relief, and recovery are effective, communities are sufficiently engaged and more resilient, and best practices and lessons learned are implemented so that mistakes are not repeated.

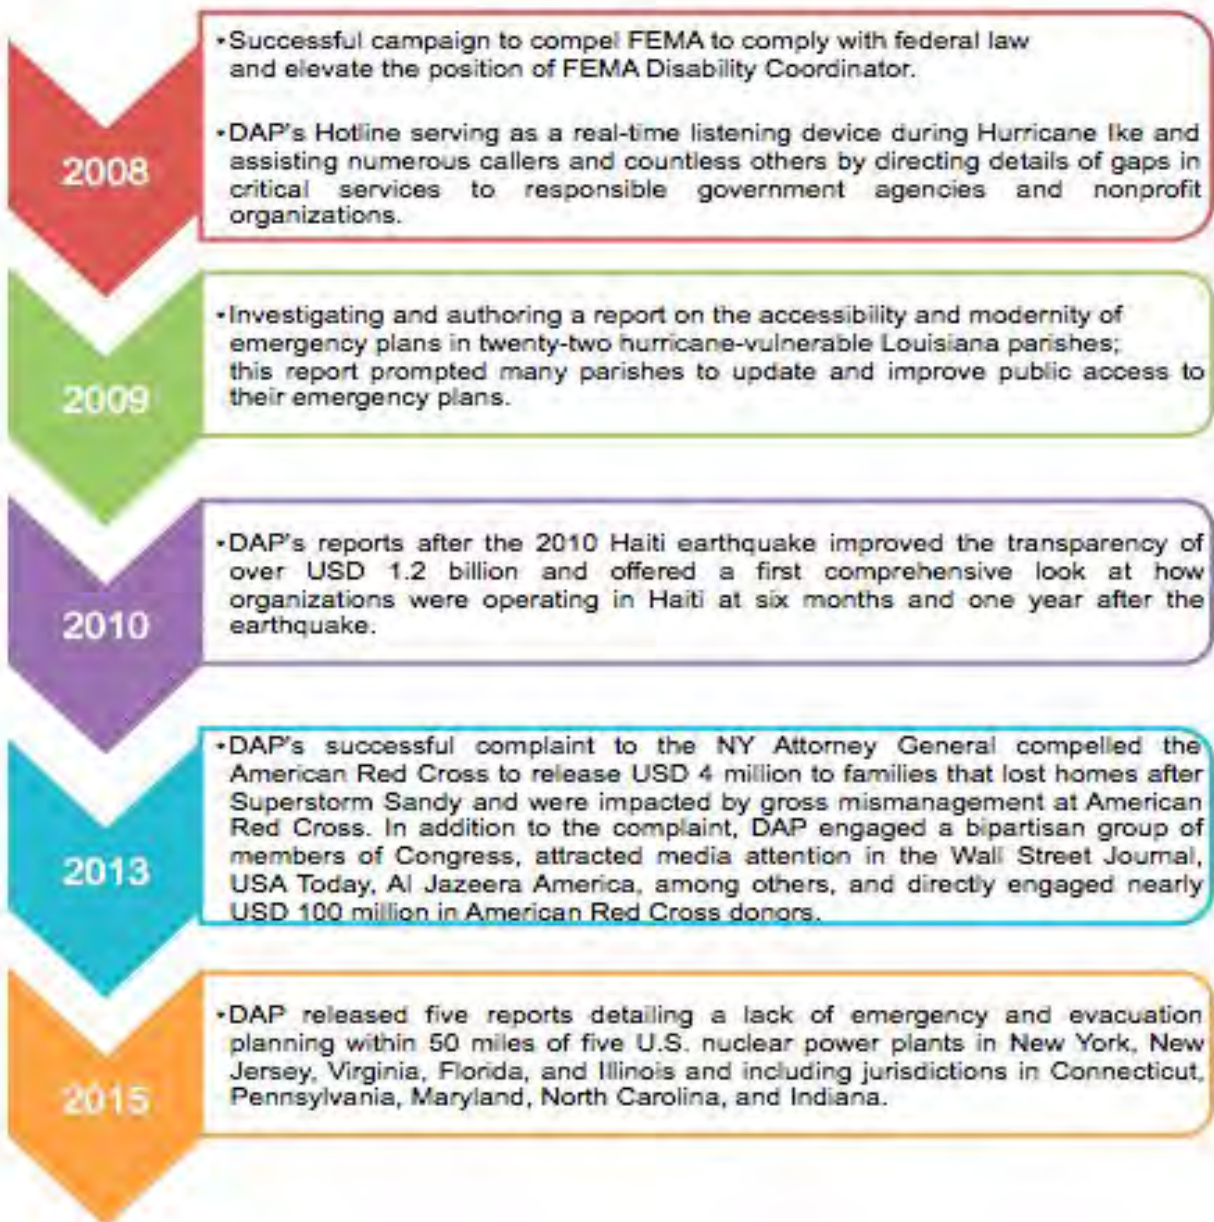

Prior to DAP's creation in 2007, there was no organization providing independent oversight of the agencies and organizations responsible for these critical life-saving responsibilities.

Survivors of disasters, members of Congress, news media, donors, philanthropic organizations, and emergency management practitioners have requested and utilized DAP's research and real-time data.

Additional information about DAP's ongoing disaster accountability efforts can be found on its web site: <http://www.disasteraccountability.org/>

DAP's History

DAP has had an out-sized and far-reaching impact. Some accomplishments include:

Purpose of the Report:

The purpose of this report is to improve the effectiveness, transparency, and accountability of the 2015 Nepal Earthquake response and to help ensure that survivors, donors, and the public have information about the solicitations, response efforts to date, and plans for further response and recovery activities of international non-governmental organizations (INGOs and NGOs) and civil society organizations.

SECTION II: DONATION APPEAL REVIEW

This section of the report offers a comparison of the varying appeals for donations of nearly 100 organizations as a method of gauging how organizations plan to spend the funds raised in response to their post-earthquake, Nepal-specific solicitations.

Scope:

DAP assessed approximately 100 civil society, diaspora, and international organizations during the first month of the response with the intention of:

- 1) Identifying the organizations that have made an appeal to raise funds for the 2015 Nepal earthquakes, and
- 2) Reviewing the appeals of these organizations to assess how they plan to spend funds raised from Nepal-specific solicitations and the clarity with which this information was provided on their websites.

Sample of Findings:

Examples of a Small Earmark (i.e. 10%) to a General Disaster Relief Fund Separate from Standard “Overhead” Earmark.¹

- CARE - “10% of your contribution will also be used to help us prepare for the next emergency, whenever it occurs.”
- Save the Children - “Ten percent of your contribution will be used to help us prepare for the next emergency.”

Examples of Policies That Repurpose Funds Elsewhere After a Disaster

- Cross International - “Proceeds will go directly to the most urgent projects of the need you have selected. In the event that more funds are raised than needed to fund a particular project in any given category, the excess fund will be used to meet the most urgent needs of the ministry.”

Examples of Solicitations Stating Funds Will Stay in Nepal

- Episcopal Relief & Development - “Following the initial relief phase, this fund will continue to support longer-term recovery efforts with local partners.”
- Islamic Relief USA - “Donations made toward Nepal Humanitarian Aid fund are used only to support emergency relief work in Nepal. Donations made toward Nepal Humanitarian Aid in excess of the support requirements for this particular emergency may be used to support other important emergency or long-term work in Nepal.”
- Mindful Medicine Worldwide - “100% of your donation will go to either rebuilding the clinic, or providing villagers a small shelter in which to wait out the rainy season.”

¹DAP Executive Director Ben Smilowitz recommended this type of earmark in December 2014 here: <http://www.njspotlight.com/stories/14/12/03/private-donations-fuel-new-jersey-s-long-term-recovery-from-hurricane-sandy/>

THE FIRST MONTH:

EXAMINING THE HUMANITARIAN RELIEF RESPONSE TO THE 2015 NEPAL EARTHQUAKES

- One World One Heart Foundation - "When you donate to One World One Heart Foundation 100% of your donation will be sent directly to Nepal and will go toward providing concrete services and support to women, children, and families living in Nepal."

Examples of Vague or More General Earmarking Text in Solicitations

- Educate the Children - "100% of funds received through this means of contributing will support the work of providing relief and/or rebuilding in ETC's current and past project areas." (The quote does not specify that the funds will be used for Nepal earthquake relief efforts.)
- Shikshya Foundation Nepal - "100% of donations we receive will go directly to the people who need it most."
- Operation USA - "Your donation will go directly to providing essential aid in the United States and abroad, helping children and families in disaster impacted communities recover and thrive."
- Buddhist Tzu Chi Foundation - "Please donate to the Buddhist Tzu Chi Foundation's Disaster Relief Fund. 100% of donations to the fund received from April 25 – May 31 will go directly to earthquake relief." (There is no mention of Nepal specifically.)
- NepalShare - "With this fund, the we will procure relief materials such as tents, food, and water, and organize transportation to dispatch items to the affected areas as soon as possible." (There is no mention of Nepal earthquake disaster relief specifically on the donations page.)

Examples of Solicitations that Mention Other Disasters on a Nepal Fundraising Page

- Salvation Army solicitation via PayPal²

² <https://www.paypal-donations.com/pp-charity/web.us/campaign.jsp?cid=35>

THE FIRST MONTH:

EXAMINING THE HUMANITARIAN RELIEF RESPONSE TO THE 2015 NEPAL EARTHQUAKES

- CARE solicitation via PayPal³

Although the unrelated content of these solicitations is likely an oversight by these organizations, DAP contacted both groups (and others) in late April/early May to let them know of these and similar errors. At least one other organization quickly fixed the text on its donation page. Nevertheless, there is reason to question how donations raised by misleading solicitations will be earmarked.

Discussion: General Trends Observed

DAP's assessment was conducted by four independent reviewers with varied academic and professional backgrounds. Their observations are as follows:

Funds clearly earmarked

Many organizations soliciting funds for the 2015 Nepal earthquakes have clearly earmarked money for the Nepal disaster. Even if these organizations are using a part of their donations to prepare for the next emergency, they inform donors upfront, so that donors are aware of how their contribution is being used. For example, organizations like Save the Children and CARE provide a specific link for donating to the victims of the Nepal earthquake, which is separate from their general donation link. Both organizations' Nepal earthquake donation pages specifically mention that ten percent of any contributions will be used to help them prepare for the next emergency.

The International Rescue Committee's website offers a good example of a graph demonstrating how the organization allocates funds. The graph is very clearly visible for potential donors on the donation page itself, rather than appearing on a separate information page about the organization. The website states that "[o]f every $1 the IRC spends, more than 90 cents goes to programs and services that directly benefit refugees and war affected populations." The donation page itself clearly states to donors that they are donating to the Nepal relief efforts.

Give now to support relief efforts in Nepal

Millions of families have been affected by the two earthquakes in Nepal, the worst that the country has experienced in 80 years. The IRC continues working with its established partner, the Association for Aid and Relief, Japan (AARJ), which is on the ground distributing food and emergency supplies to families in need. In addition to supporting AARJ with expertise from our supply chain, protection and technical staff, we are facilitating the delivery of critical household items and financial contributions.

Inconsistencies in fundraising appeals

Many organizations have shown inconsistencies in their appeals for raising funds for Nepal. Some have made an appeal via the PayPal donations page created exclusively for the Nepal disaster. However, the description shown when a prospective donor clicks on the donation link has no mention of the Nepal earthquakes at all. American Red Cross is a good example of this ambiguity (see below).

Similar ambiguities exist for Team Rubicon, World Food Programme, MercyCorps, and World Vision, among many others. Compared to organizations like Oxfam, which uses the same PayPal platform and has clearly indicated that the donated funds will be used to provide relief to the victims of the Nepal earthquakes (see below), there are legitimate concerns about where many organizations are directing donations they receive from various fundraising platforms.

THE FIRST MONTH:

EXAMINING THE HUMANITARIAN RELIEF RESPONSE TO THE 2015 NEPAL EARTHQUAKES

Another organization, Operation USA, makes two ambiguous statements on its donations page about the uses of donated funds. On one hand, it says "[d]onate to help support earthquake recovery efforts in Nepal" at the top of the page, but on the other it also says "[y]our donation will go directly to providing essential aid in the United States and abroad, helping children and families in disaster impacted communities recover and thrive," which makes the intended use of the money raised unclear.

Funds are earmarked for any disaster

A few organizations, such as ShelterBox, Doctors Without Borders (MSF), and Tzu Chi Foundation, have not created a designated relief fund for the Nepal disaster. While these organizations are soliciting donations under the banner of relief for earthquake survivors, any money received is being directed to a more general fund.

ShelterBox, for instance, provides a link for making a donation for the Nepal earthquake disaster.

THE FIRST MONTH:
EXAMINING THE HUMANITARIAN RELIEF RESPONSE TO THE 2015 NEPAL EARTHQUAKES

It was the most powerful disaster to strike Nepal since the 1934 Nepal-Bihar earthquake. Tremors were felt as far away as Delhi in India. Early reports suggest that around 600,000 homes have been damaged or destroyed and 8.1 million people are now reported to be in need of humanitarian assistance.

PLEASE DONATE NOW

Second quake: On May 12, the 7.3 magnitude earthquake hit the town of Namche Bazar, near Mount Everest at 7:05 am. Just like the first disaster two weeks earlier, this quake could be felt as far away as Delhi and was followed by two smaller quakes of 5.6 and 6.3 magnitudes (Source: www.GDACS.org).

However, when a prospective donor clicks on the 'Please Donate Now' link, it takes them to a donation page where there is an option to choose the purpose for which the funds will be used. ShelterBox provides a host of categories in which to donate funds (refer to the screenshot below), but there is no specific category for the Nepal earthquakes, despite the fact that the link leading up to the donation page says "ShelterBox Response to 2015 earthquake in Nepal."

In addition, the page mentions that “ShelterBox will only distribute aid on the basis of need and within safe and achievable operating parameters. Location-specific or time-specific donations cannot be honored.” The statement “within safe and achievable operating parameters” is especially unclear as it does not clarify whether all or part of the donated funds will be used for providing relief to the victims of the Nepal earthquakes.

Similarly, Doctors Without Borders (MSF) does not provide a designated relief fund for the Nepal disaster. In fact, it states, “[f]or Doctors Without Borders, the ability to respond quickly to medical humanitarian emergencies is crucial to saving more lives. Unrestricted funds allow us to allocate our resources most efficiently and where the needs are greatest.” Although this level of transparency is critical, the lack of earmarking reduces the likelihood that funds will be directed for a designated purpose, which may be important to a donor seeking to have impact in Nepal.

Tzu Chi Foundation is another organization that only offers a general ‘Disaster Relief Fund’ on their donation page. The link leading up to the donation page says “Send aid to Nepal”. However, the donation page itself does not earmark the funds for the Nepal earthquakes (see the images below). There is also no mention of what percentage of these funds will be reserved for Nepal. It is mentioned that “100% of donations to the fund received from April 25 - May 31 will go directly to earthquake relief.” However, this statement does not mention Nepal earthquake relief which provides some leeway to the organization to use funds for earthquake disasters elsewhere.

THE FIRST MONTH:

Broken Link

When a link is broken, websites show an error page, forcing potential donors to either donate through a different page (for example to the organization as a whole rather than a Nepal-specific portal) or at times to donate without background information that the broken page would have supplied such as data on the percentage of donations that an organization spends on aid. This prevents individuals from being able to donate with knowledge about how donated funds are being allocated.

THE FIRST MONTH:

EXAMINING THE HUMANITARIAN RELIEF RESPONSE TO THE 2015 NEPAL EARTHQUAKES

Another example is the White Zone's broken Facebook link, shown below:

Inconsistent Earmarking for Specific Nepal Relief Versus General Fund

A very common issue DAP reviewers noticed on certain websites are choices for multiple donation options. One can donate to the organization as a whole, or one can donate through a donation page that is earmarked specifically to Nepal (often this is done via a dropdown menu or a page specifically set up for that purpose). A donation to the organization as a whole may be used at the discretion of the organization. Although some organizations may dedicate donations to Nepal if they were made between specific dates, it is often unclear for how long this will continue and at what point donations may be redirected to a general fund or for another specific disaster.

A donation made through a specifically earmarked page would have a higher likelihood, barring any fine print, of being used for the purpose intended by the donor.

ShelterBox USA provides a good example of how inconsistent some organizations' donation sites can be. ShelterBox's main page banner for Nepal brings a potential donor to a donation page that does not allow the donor to select Nepal earthquake recovery from its drop down menu. Another misleading donation page on the organization's website was publicized by the organization's Twitter account, following a statement that read "Help is urgently needed" in Nepal. This donation page is specific to Nepal, but it includes the following two disclaimers:

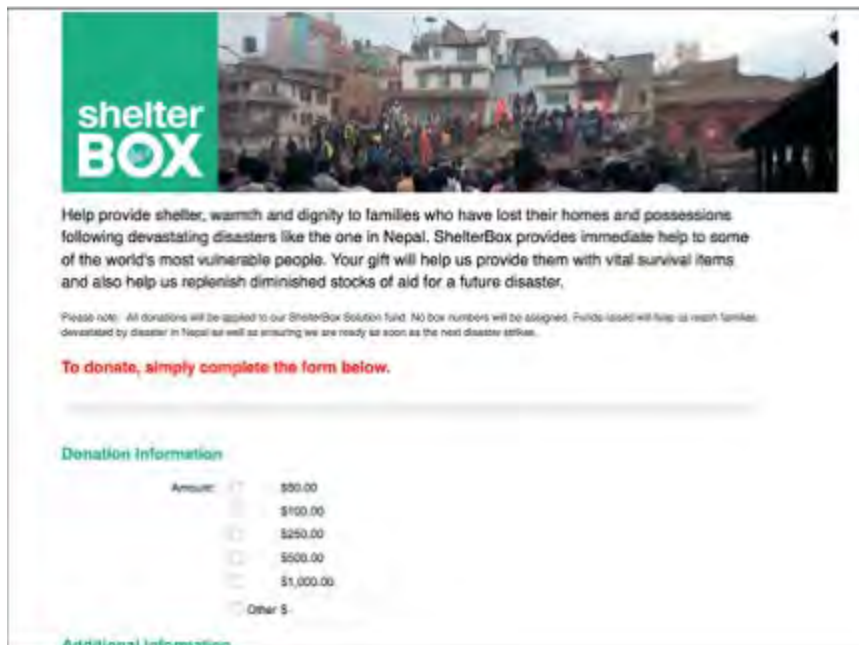

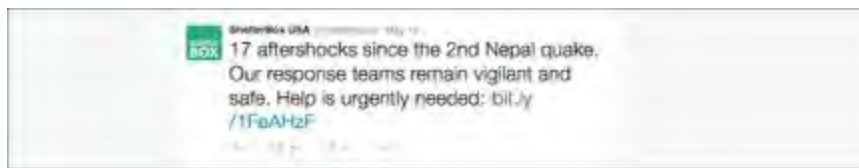

"Please note: All donations will be applied to our ShelterBox Solution fund. No box numbers will be assigned. Funds raised will help us reach families devastated by disaster in Nepal as well as ensuring we are ready as soon as the next disaster strikes."

"Help provide shelter, warmth and dignity to families who have lost their homes and possessions following devastating disasters like the one in Nepal. ShelterBox provides immediate help to some of the world's most vulnerable people. Your gift will help us provide them with vital survival items and also help us replenish diminished stocks of aid for a future disaster."

THE FIRST MONTH:

EXAMINING THE HUMANITARIAN RELIEF RESPONSE TO THE 2015 NEPAL EARTHQUAKES

These disclaimers mean any funds donated could be allocated to any future disaster.

Organizations Reserving the Right to Send Excess Donated Funds Elsewhere

Many organizations, especially larger groups and those not based in Nepal, reserve the right to reallocate excess funds generated for the benefit of Nepal after their recovery efforts in Nepal are complete.

Policies that allow for the reallocation of excess funds provide groups an incentive to aggressively raise relief money when the organization knows it will have only a limited response. Some organizations fundraise aggressively, even when they send only a handful of people to the disaster site, as in the case of Nepal. Disaster donors intending to support a specific disaster relief effort are encouraged by an organization's fundraising efforts, and their donations end up in a general disaster fund. As a result, only a fraction of the total funds intended for a particular relief effort are earmarked for that disaster.

Making organization policies clear on donation websites helps inform donors up front that their funds may be reallocated and allows donors to make an informed choice about where their money is being spent. Some organizations "hide the ball" on their donors by relegating their policies to fine print or other, less transparent, pages of their websites.

Some websites do not state any organizational policy, either because the site makes it clear that all funds raised will go to Nepal, or, worse, because the organizations choose not to publicize a policy at all. Organizations that encourage fundraising on their behalf may fall into the trap of collecting funds without clearly stating to their donors how the raised funds will be spent.

THE FIRST MONTH:

EXAMINING THE HUMANITARIAN RELIEF RESPONSE TO THE 2015 NEPAL EARTHQUAKES

Some organizations, like British Red Cross, Cross International, SEBS, World Vision and Handicap International have policies providing that in the event that more funds are raised than needed to fund a particular project, excess funds will be used for another purpose. Although these organizations are transparent about the repurposing of donations, the policy gives these organizations the liberty to use “excess” funds as they deem fit and not necessarily as the donor intended. These policies may provide organizations with incentive to urgently and aggressively solicit donations, even when they know they will not have the capacity to deliver services to the targeted disaster zone with the same vigor.

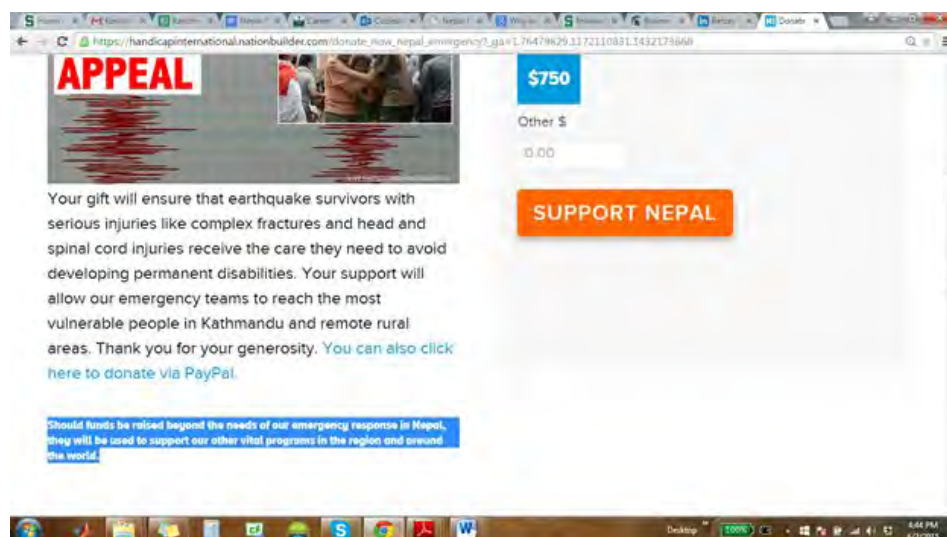

In cases where an organization manages to raise money in excess of what it can deploy, DAP recommends that it should redirect excess funds to local organizations in Nepal that are still in need, instead of directing the funds to their own more general relief accounts. In these situations, organizations should not retain the same percentage of overhead they would ordinarily take if they were delivering services themselves.

The screenshot shows the British Red Cross fundraising page for the Nepal Earthquake Appeal. On the left, there is a sidebar with navigation links: 'Give to a special project', 'Make a major donation', 'Payroll giving', 'Leave a legacy', 'Donate in memory', 'Donation enquiries', and 'Our fundraisers'. Below these links is a 'Fundraising' logo. The main content area has a header 'how to save lives.' with donation options: '£30', '£50', '£100', and 'Other'. Below the donation options are 'Donate by' buttons for 'Credit card' and 'PayPal'. To the right of the donation options is a photo of a person in a patterned shirt. Below the photo is a 'DEC' logo. The text on the page describes the earthquake in Nepal, stating that thousands are feared dead, many more are injured, and many have been made homeless. It mentions that buildings have been flattened, communities shattered, and lives torn apart. It also states that Nepal Red Cross volunteers are searching for survivors, providing first aid to the wounded and turning blood banks. Below this text is a 'Please note' section with a disclaimer: 'The Nepal Earthquake Appeal will support communities currently affected and those potentially affected in the future by this crisis. In the unlikely event that we raise more money than can be reasonably and efficiently spent, any surplus funds will be used to help us prepare for and respond to other humanitarian disasters anywhere in the world.' To the right of the disclaimer is a 'Contact us' section with the phone number '0300 455 4999'. Below the disclaimer is a 'Donate by post' section with links to 'Download donation form.pdf' and 'Download donation form.docx'.

SECTION III: SURVEY FINDINGS

This section of the report and the corresponding Annex 4 (beginning on page 64) includes the full-text DAP survey responses from international, diaspora, and local civil society organizations involved in and/or fundraising for the response/recovery effort.

Scope/Process:

DAP sent surveys to 103 organizations (full list here or on Page 60) identified as soliciting online donations after the Nepal Earthquake, identified as a responding Nepali civil society organization by DAP staff or volunteers, or that DAP had surveyed previously after other disasters.

DAP followed up with unresponsive organizations multiple times. DAP will make available the list of contacts and email addresses at each organization upon request.

Please Note: The full text of surveys is located in Annex 4 to this report (Page 64). Tables that represent survey findings are located in ANNEX 1: TABLES (Page 22). Organization survey responses are unedited.

Discussion: General Trends Observed

- Half of the organizations did not respond

Some large organizations (with sizable PR departments and even some with “accountability officers”) that have raised millions of dollars since the earthquakes did not respond to DAP’s survey. This timely survey, which included basic questions, is necessary to monitor the activities of individual organizations and provide survivors, local organizations, media, and donors with a larger picture and comparison of what organizations are doing with donated funds. Donors should be alerted to organizations that excuse themselves from basic transparency exercises.

See List 2.1: Organizations and Participation in Survey on Page 60

- The lack of requirements for reporting

Data about relief efforts is lacking. To their credit, some mapping organizations and coordination agencies are trying to facilitate data sharing for coordination. A persistent problem is intense “fundraising competition” among organizations, including groups that have limited capacity to deliver actual relief services in the immediate aftermath of a disaster and that fail to deliver the necessary transparency in their fundraising appeals, which are ostensibly for the delivery of immediate relief.

- “Amounts raised” totals only include what organizations claim as attributable to the Nepal earthquakes

As demonstrated in Part One of this report, there is no consistency in how organizations fundraise for each disaster. Some are clear about earmarking donations and others are not. In fact, in DAP’s reviews of nearly 100 organizations, we found inconsistencies in many organizations’ appeals, and we have reason to believe that, unbeknownst to donors, these organizations are only counting some donations as earmarked for Nepal Relief/Recovery. Landing pages that mention Nepal Relief often lead to fundraising pages that are more general and not Nepal-specific. Furthermore, organizations may end their official Nepal-specific fundraising efforts while social media messaging and other fundraising platforms continue to solicit donations for their Nepal disaster relief program. It is unclear whether donations from these other sources, or motivated by continued social media marketing, are earmarked for Nepal or whether they are allocated to a more general “disaster fund” or even more general “discretionary fund.”

- Many organizations soliciting donations for Nepal have nobody on the ground

Most donors are unaware that many organizations soliciting donations for Nepal Relief do not have their own staff on the ground in Nepal. Some have local partners and others are part of networks and have local affiliates. In most situations where organizations do not have their own existing capacity, groups act as intermediaries at a cost. Before funds are “re-granted” to a partner or affiliate or grantee (potentially years later as seen after the Haiti earthquake), most organizations take an “overhead” percentage ranging anywhere from 5% to 15% or more. Overhead is necessary for organizational sustainability, especially when a group is delivering quality services after a disaster. However, there is no reason why organizations not delivering direct services and simply “re-granting” donations should take the same percentage of overhead as organizations delivering services after a disaster. This past year, ProPublica exposed American Red Cross by stating that “overhead” percentage yield was “misleading”. (<http://www.propublica.org/series/red-cross>)

See Table 1.5: Staff on the Ground / # of Nepalese Nationals on Staff / Services Provided (Page 44)

- Districts vs. Villages: What generalities could mean for coordination/data sharing

Organizations were asked to provide specific information about where and when they are providing post-disaster services in Nepal. Some organizations responded with a district name and others provided village names, which are much more localized. Naming districts, which cover a large geographic area, is akin to an organization saying they delivered services in “Rhode Island” when asked to be specific. There is a real concern that some organizations may distribute more aid in easier to access locations of hard-hit districts without specifying their activity on a village-level. This will inevitably result in an uneven distribution of aid with wasteful and unnecessary surpluses in some locations and dangerous deficits in others.

See Table 1.7: Where Organizations Are Operating (Page 51)

- To Share or Not to Share: Names of local partners

Most organizations that indicated on the survey that they re-grant shared the names of local partners on the ground in Nepal. Many groups that did not respond to the survey are also involved in re-granting activities. There are a few potential reasons why organizations did not share their list of local partners: some organizations 1) lack basic transparency, 2) did not have Nepal-based relationships or partnerships established before the earthquakes, and/or 3) benefit financially from being an intermediary or “middle-man” in disaster relief/recovery fundraising and experience a windfall for simply raising money, taking a percentage for overhead and then re-granting the donations at a future time.

See Table 1.6: Organizations Re-granting and Grant Recipients (Page 49)

- Some soliciting organizations do not have Nepalese employees on the ground

Organizations were asked to provide the number of Nepalese workers on the ground in Nepal. Some organizations claimed to have 100% Nepalese staff and others claimed to have both locals and expats on their staff. About 25% of the responding organizations claimed to re-grant their funds and/or donations mostly to local partner organizations. Approximately 20% of the soliciting organizations claimed to not have Nepalese employees on the ground while they simultaneously claimed to be involved in Food Items Delivery, Sheltering, Medical/Health Care, WASH, etc.

See Table 1.5: Staff on the Ground / # of Nepalese Nationals on Staff / Services Provided (Page 44)

DAP's RECOMMENDATIONS

1. Consistency: It is vital that organizations regularly update their publicly visible donation policies and are also aware of their own fundraising efforts as well as fundraising efforts made on their behalf both during and immediately following a disaster. It is evident from the survey results of this report and information gleaned from previous disasters that many organizations lack consistency in both their fundraising appeals and use of donated funds intended by donors for a particular event like the Nepal earthquakes. Considering the significant resources that large, international organizations invest in marketing and communications, it is unfortunate that so many lack consistency regarding earmarking or do not take the time to update the stated policies behind their online appeals from prior disaster events.
2. Transparency: It is critical that funds raised for disaster relief and recovery are used with the same urgency as the solicitations by which they were raised. Fundraising organizations with limited capacity in Nepal should be forthcoming in their appeals and specify whether they are directly delivering relief services, re-granting funds, or planning a future mobilization. Most donors have no idea whether an organization has 200 staff on the ground or only two.
3. Coordination: Aid organizations must share complete and specific data via third-party surveys, not only for the sake of transparency and accountability, but also to enhance coordination of relief efforts. The failure to share any data or providing only vague and general information results in an unclear and incomplete picture of what organizations are doing in Nepal. Large aid organizations, with large communications teams, are not facilitating a transparent, effective, and coordinated response when they refuse to cooperate and expect those engaged in data collection efforts to visit their websites to find information.
4. The Role of Charity Watchdogs and “How to Help” Pages: Disaster-specific and location-specific data should guide donors, not generalized websites with generic and non-specific data. After disasters, there is a dangerous over-reliance on Charity Navigator and Guidestar ratings of relief organizations, as they are more focused on legal compliance and less focused on a relief organization's actual capacity to deliver services in a particular geographic area. Many “how to help” pages utilize incomplete and misleading data in their efforts to offer public guidance on how to help after a disaster. Further, most current “how to help” pages do not include civil society organizations or nonprofits that may be local to an actual disaster site and that may be the most effective organizations to deliver aid services.

THE FIRST MONTH:

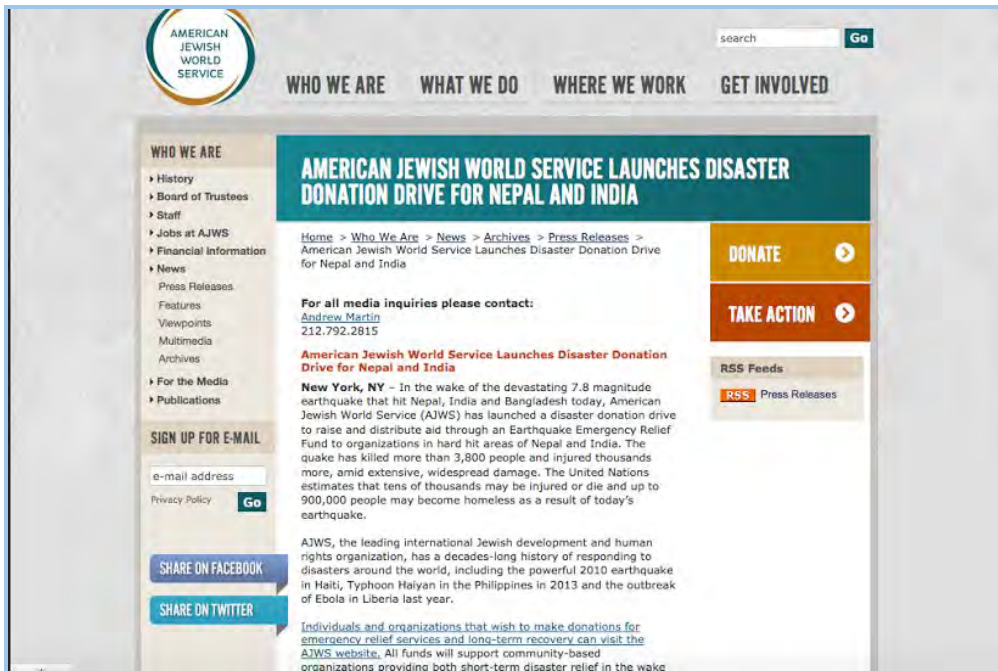

EXAMINING THE HUMANITARIAN RELIEF RESPONSE TO THE 2015 NEPAL EARTHQUAKES

5. Donor Awareness: Donors must be provided with easy to access and independent data in order to make informed choices regarding how to donate to disaster relief efforts. To that end, DAP is releasing a new version of its SmartResponse.org website this summer. DAP’s new SmartResponse program will provide data regarding the on-the-ground capacity of local civil society and international organizations by geographic location. On the first day after a disaster, donors will be able to use the survey data collected by SmartResponse to identify organizations that exist in a disaster zone that are providing aid services.

$4.4 million

Please describe your organization's policy on earmarking donations received since the Nepal Earthquake.

Donations made to AmeriCares Nepal Relief Fund will only be used to support our earthquake recovery work in Nepal.

What are your strengths and challenges delivering aid after the April 2015 Nepal Earthquake?

AmeriCares international presence allowed us to dispatch a medical team from India within 48 hours of the earthquake, bringing 400 pounds of critically needed medicines and supplies to treat survivors. Additional relief workers from our U.S. headquarters quickly followed. Our more than 30 years of emergency response and logistics expertise was especially helpful in this emergency as periodic airport closings, aftershocks and weight limitations for aid shipments proved to be a challenge. We successfully landed a chartered airlift carrying nearly $1 million in desperately needed medical aid 10 days after the earthquake. All of the medicines on board were requested by recipient organizations and approved by the World Health Organization. The cargo was delivered to local organizations providing health services to survivors. Challenges: Dealing with aftershocks, weak transportation infrastructure, and impending monsoon season.

Q4: What are your organization's plans for post-earthquake service delivery?

CARE has been working in Nepal since 1978 and started relief efforts immediately after the earthquake hit Nepal. CARE has reached more than 13,000 people with food, emergency shelter, reproductive health and hygiene items. CARE is planning to reach 100,000 of the most vulnerable people, with a focus on the remote areas of Nepal. Over the next month CARE plans to distribute weather resistant emergency shelter to 30,000 people in preparation for the monsoon rains. CARE has started distributing reproductive health kits to villages in Gorkha – the kits include essential medicines and supplies for birthing attendants to handle medical complications in delivery. Hygiene kits are also being distributed that include some items specific for women like diapers for the babies and sanitary napkins, as well as soap, toothbrushes and towels. CARE also will support longer-term recovery for earthquake survivors, so they can rebuild their homes, infrastructures and lives. As the response evolves, CARE transitions to providing more durable solutions, allowing families to build back safer homes and reduce their vulnerability to natural disasters.

Q8: Amount Raised / Earmarking / Strengths and Challenges

How much (in USD) has your organization raised (so far) in response to the Nepal Earthquake to date?

$10.9 million

Please describe your organization's policy on earmarking donations received since the Nepal Earthquake.

All funds raised for Nepali earthquake relief go toward helping the people of Nepal with both immediate needs and in their efforts to rebuild their lives and communities.

What are your strengths and challenges delivering aid after the April 2015 Nepal Earthquake?

Strengths include familiarity with earthquake-affected areas, as CARE has worked in Nepal since 1978 and has existing programs in 33 of Nepal's 75 districts. Another strength has been our ability to deploy reinforcements who are experts in maternal health, water and sanitation, shelter, etc. Finally, a strength of CARE is our ability to identify and address the needs of women and girls, which is critical given the large portion of female-headed households in the most-affected areas. Challenges include access to remote areas given landslides and damaged roads. With mobile networks damaged or overloaded, communications with remote areas is patchy and in some areas we still do not yet have a clear understanding of how bad the damage is. In some areas, electricity and water have been cut off. Another challenge is the need for some staff, who have lost homes and loved ones, to tend to their own families while at the same time working on CARE's response.

In addition to assisting local governmental service providing bodies as much as we can, the police with communication infrastructure for example, our immediate plans are to facilitate the resumption of school in temporary structures. The long term plan is to assist in the planning and re-construction of the schools affected by the earthquake in not just Thangpalkot but the entire area consisting of six Village Development Committees (VDCs).

Q5: Did you apply for funding under the "UN Flash Appeal?" If so, please share your proposal (Please enter a URL or email the proposal to info@disasteraccountability.org)

However, when a donor requests their donation to be earmarked specifically for education-related project (which often happens with students or schools) we do so.
 - What are your strengths and challenges delivering aid after the April 2015 Nepal Earthquake?COMMITTED has been working in Thangpalkot for the last six years and have established a very good working relationship with the people of Thangpalkot. We have a very good reputation not just in Thangpalkot, but also in the neighboring VDC's, members from which, for a while, have been approaching us to expand our assistance program to their areas as well. As a matter of fact, just about five months ago we had our formal meeting with their representatives and had begun fundraising, before the earthquake, to assist them. The challenges COMMITTED faces delivering aid is related to our small size.

Q4: What are your organization's plans for post-earthquake service delivery?

Over the next four months, Handicap International (Federation) plans to provide rehabilitation to at least 1,500 injured people and train 1,200 of their family members or friends to care for them. During an emergency, basic help from a survivor's family and friends aids their recovery and helps prevent the development of permanent disabilities. The organization will also supply ten healthcare facilities with equipment and train staff to care for the injured. In addition to helping the injured, the organization plans to help 7,000 highly vulnerable people, including people with disabilities, the sick, and the elderly. Teams will travel to villages, some in extremely remote areas, to identify the most vulnerable people, assess their needs, and connect them to hospitals, health centers, and humanitarian organizations that can provide them with services and aid. Handicap International will work with other humanitarian aid organizations to ensure they take into account the needs of the injured, people with disabilities, and other vulnerable groups that might have trouble accessing aid. In coordination with the World Food Program, Handicap International will provide logistics support and set up a network of trucks and storage bases to transport, store, and distribute food and equipment for NGOs and UN agencies working in Nepal. This network will allow humanitarian organizations to pool their resources and respond to the earthquake in a coordinated fashion.

Q8: Amount Raised / Earmarking / Strengths and Challenges

How much (in USD) has your organization raised (so far) in response to the Nepal Earthquake to date?

$78,000

Please describe your organization's policy on earmarking donations received since the Nepal Earthquake.

We include language on all appeals and donation pages for Nepal relief stating that "should funds be raised beyond the needs of our emergency response in Nepal, they will be used to support our other vital programs in the region and around the world."

What are your strengths and challenges delivering aid after the April 2015 Nepal Earthquake?

HI Federation has found transportation to be challenging within the country, as many others have. Our strengths include our logistics platform, our expertise at rehabilitation/physical therapy, and the fact that HI federation had 53 staff already in Nepal, including many rehabilitation experts and physical therapists so we were able to start helping people right away.

Direct Service: Health/Medical	20%
Direct Service: Water/Sanitation	10%
Direct Service: Communications Infrastructure	10%

Q4: What are your organization's plans for post-earthquake service delivery?

Himalayan HealthCare has donated hundreds of metric tons of food, water purification, medicines and medical supplies to remote villages in Northern Dhading and roughly US$43,000 worth of medical equipment to the district hospital in Dhadingbesi. We had medical staff providing emergency care, as well as psychological support and prevention of epidemics, in Tipling and Sherthung, and have recently sent a team of US volunteers and Nepali staff to set up a medical camp in Lapa. Himalayan HealthCare has donated a back-up generator to the district hospital and donated four generators to Nepal Telecom in the days following the earthquake to restore power and phone service and facilitate disaster relief in the region. We also donated ten solar panels with batteries to ten police stations in Dhading villages to ensure security to communities hard hit by the earthquake where trauma and mass hysteria are now common. We are currently carrying out assessments of damage to homes, schools and health clinics and will be directly involved in rebuilding these structures in a way that helps to minimize casualties in the event of a future natural disaster.

Q5: Did you apply for funding under the "UN Flash Appeal?" If so, please share your proposal (Please enter a URL or email the proposal to info@disasteraccountability.org)

No

Q6: Service Delivery Locations

a) Is your organization operating outside of Kathmandu in response to the earthquake?

Yes

b) Where are you focusing your service delivery in Nepal? Please list specific locations in Nepal and dates of service delivery in each location:

Ongoing support is being provided by HHC in Dhadingbesi and Northern Dhading (Lapa, Tipling, Sherthung, Jharlang, Ri and other surrounding villages). Medical camps in Sherthung and Tipling were held from May 1-May 11 with 848 patients treated. New medical camp begins May 15 in Lapa. We have supported these communities for 23 years and will be involved long-term in the recovery process.

Q7: Staff & Partnerships

a) Please share the current number of staff unique to your organization in Nepal. Please note: 1) Other organizations should not be able to count these same individuals. 2) We are not asking about people in your organization's NETWORK but instead direct employees of your specific organization - i.e. American Red Cross not the entire Red Cross network.

Approximately 40+ (This number includes all fulltime staff of Himalayan HealthCare Nepal as well as other Nepalis who have worked with us previously on a temporary basis (to manage or assist with our medical treks) who we have brought on since the earthquake to assist with the relief efforts.)

b) Please provide additional clarification on the staff count provided above: How many are Nepali nationals?

All

c) How many are international, from outside Nepal?

0. We have a team of 7 American volunteers, including the president and past president of our board of directors, who are currently in Dhading providing medical care and documenting Himalayan HealthCare's relief efforts.

d) Is your organization partnering with any local organizations? If so, which ones?

We are serving as a local partner to AmeriCares and NYC Medics, assisting with logistics for their earthquake relief in Dhading.

Q8: Amount Raised / Earmarking / Strengths and Challenges

How much (in USD) has your organization raised (so far) in response to the Nepal Earthquake to date?

Approximately $400,000

Please describe your organization's policy on earmarking donations received since the Nepal Earthquake.

If a donor requests his or her contribution be used for a particular purpose (ie relief tents), then we will use the donation for that purpose. The vast majority of unearmarked funds that have come to Himalayan HealthCare since April 25, 2015 have been or will be used for earthquake relief, including longer term recovery and rebuilding, as well as to replenish the Himalayan HealthCare account so that our staff in Nepal, who are providing relief services, continue to receive pay and general operating costs are covered.

What are your strengths and challenges delivering aid after the April 2015 Nepal Earthquake?

We have been operating in the remote mountain villages in Dhading for 23 years and had staff and health workers on the ground in various locations at the time of the earthquake. We have existing relationships with the District Health Office and other regional government offices and were able to coordinate relief efforts immediately. All of the bridges and many of the footpaths to these remote villages were taken out by the earthquake and subsequent landslides. As a result, the villages are only accessible by helicopter and helicopters are in short supply and substantially increase the cost of transporting supplies to the villages.

- Please describe your organization's policy on earmarking donations received since the Nepal Earthquake. Funds raised for the Nepal response will be used for earthquake relief and recovery efforts in Nepal
- What are your strengths and challenges delivering aid after the April 2015 Nepal Earthquake? International Medical Corps had emergency response personnel on the ground in Nepal when the first quake struck on April 25, 2015, allowing us to immediately begin supporting the Government of Nepal to assess and identify needs. Drawing on our strong network of medical and humanitarian volunteers in the region and international volunteers with experience working in Nepal, we were able to quickly deploy additional staff to Nepal to rapidly ramp up our response capacity. From orthopedic surgeons to logisticians and engineers, International Medical Corps has the expert personnel in Nepal to ensure effective and efficient support for Nepal's relief and recovery efforts. In addition, we have fostered a strong working relationship with the Ministry of Health and Population (MoHP) and local authorities in the locations in which we work, and we remain flexible and responsive as the needs change. One of the initial challenges for the response in Nepal was reaching remote villages in need of assistance, which is why International Medical Corps is flying experts into these villages via helicopter when required.

Direct Service: Health/Medical

Q4: What are your organization's plans for post-earthquake service delivery?

With a 50-person Nepalese surgical and our local partner PHECT-Nepal, ReSurge has responded to the significant surgical needs of the Nepal earthquake victims. Working in one of the few hospitals in the Kathmandu area that was not damaged in the quake, we expanded our capacity from 2 ORs to 4 ORs and from 50 beds to 150 beds and have provided trauma care to nearly 600 patients and major surgery for more than 130. With most of Nepal's health facilities outside the district headquarters non-functioning, numbers of the injured don't have access to care or may be getting inadequate care. When these injuries don't have proper treatment initially, then they often need reconstructive surgical care later so that the victim can function again. Many injuries sustained in the earthquake will require reconstructive plastic surgery to prevent or reduce permanent disabilities – and we will continue to provide reconstructive plastic surgical care and rehabilitation for those in need, as well as build surgical capacity in Nepal. The ReSurge/PHECT-Nepal has the largest reconstructive plastic surgical team in Nepal, with 9 of the countries 16 plastic surgeons.

Q5: Did you apply for funding under the "UN Flash Appeal?" If so, please share your proposal (Please enter a URL or email the proposal to info@disasteraccountability.org)

No

Q6: Service Delivery Locations

a) Is your organization operating outside of Kathmandu in response to the earthquake?

ReSurge/PHECT-Nepal is working in Kirtipur, at Kirtipur Hospital, on the outskirts of Kathmandu.

b) Where are you focusing your service delivery in Nepal? Please list specific locations in Nepal and dates of service delivery in each location:

Most of the care will continue at Kirtipur, but we are examining possibilities to expand our services in areas where there is great need. We will also go back to providing surgical services for injury victims and those with congenital abnormalities in Pokhara, Biratnagar, Nepalganj, Butwal, Birgunj and Kathmandu. In addition, the Kirtipur Hospital has a helipad and patients may be flown in for care.

Q7: Staff & Partnerships

a) Please share the current number of staff unique to your organization in Nepal. Please note: 1) Other organizations should not be able to count these same individuals. 2) We are not asking about people in your organization's NETWORK but instead direct employees of your specific organization - i.e. American Red Cross not the entire Red Cross network.

There are 50 people on staff with the PHECT-Nepal/ReSurge International Surgical Outreach Program.

b) Please provide additional clarification on the staff count provided above: How many are Nepali nationals?

All are Nepali.

c) How many are international, from outside Nepal?

ReSurge International works in 13 developing countries and has a staff of 14, all US-based, and 9 other surgical outreach directors in various countries. Our lead for Nepal earthquake response is currently in Kathmandu to help with coordination and recovery planning, but will return to the US at the end of the month.

d) Is your organization partnering with any local organizations? If so, which ones?

PHECT-Nepal

Q8: Amount Raised / Earmarking / Strengths and Challenges

How much (in USD) has your organization raised (so far) in response to the Nepal Earthquake to date?

Approximately $180,000. USD (exact figure can be given tomorrow)

Please describe your organization's policy on earmarking donations received since the Nepal Earthquake.

ReSurge set up a designated fund, the Nepal Earthquake Surgical Care Fund, to provide for the surgical needs of earthquake victims.

What are your strengths and challenges delivering aid after the April 2015 Nepal Earthquake?

Because ReSurge had focused and invested in extensive medical training and surgical capacity building in Nepal for more than 20 years, we had a 50-person Nepalese reconstructive surgical team in place and working to provide immediate trauma and surgical care for earthquake victims. Moreover, Kirtipur Hospital was one of the few in the area that was undamaged and we were able to increase capacity from 2 ORs to 4 ORs and from 50 beds to 150 beds. In addition, we were able to immediately deploy 4 medical volunteers to assist our Nepalese surgical team. We were also able to partner with AmeriCares and get 5.5 tons of requested surgical supplies to our team. One challenge was coordination and communication on our increased capacity – and there were a few days when we were significantly over capacity and others when under capacity and frustrated that we had services to offer and not as many patients as we could serve. Now, we are almost at capacity.

Q4: What are your organization's plans for post-earthquake service delivery?

Given that Teach For Nepal Fellows live and work with the members of community, who have been devastated by the earthquake, Teach For Nepal has begun a relief effort to support the communities where we place our Fellows in.

Currently, Teach For Nepal reaches to over 112 communities and villages through our 28 placement schools in the two districts. Teach For Nepal Fellows, live and work in these communities for at least two years as full time teachers, and have built strong relationships with the members of the community and have knowledge of the on the ground situation. This places Teach For Nepal in a very strong position to carry out effective relief and rehabilitation support.

Furthermore, we are benefited by the experience of tsunami relief work of Sarvodaya Shramadana Movement in Sri Lanka, as Teach For Nepal CEO Shisir Khanal worked with Sarvodaya's award winning work after tsunami destroyed Sri Lanka's coastal communities. We work in continuous collaboration with the Sri Lankan Movement, which adds to technical knowledge and support on working community based disaster relief efforts.

Our current priority is to engage in immediate relief work in the affected communities where our Fellows work. Based on the current assessment of our Fellows and request from villages, people immediately need temporary shelter, given continuous rain, for the people who were displaced from their houses. Similarly, people also need immediate support of basic food, lights, and sanitation supplies. Our estimates are that all displaced families will need food assistance for a month, with significant number of households will need continuous support for up to three months.

Our Fellows will play a critical role in ensuring proper distribution of the relief supplies working with local community leaders.

At each community, Fellows will work with local Relief Committee. Where the committee hasn't been established, they will work with school Principal, Chair of School Management Committee, and other local leaders to form such committees for efficient distribution of the supplies.

The Fellows will work with local committees to create strong tracking and distribution system and coordinate with other local government and non-governmental agencies to avoid duplications and mismanagement of resources.

The pre-established relationship and credibility that the Fellows have established with students, parents and local leaders means that they can play instrumental role in securing and distribution of resources required for their communities.

To leverage on these strong relations, Teach For Nepal has launched immediate relief work with the Fellows to supply essential food, water, sanitation and materials required for shelter. The food item would be items from Food Basket recommended by the World Food Program (WFP) for disaster areas to meeting minimum of 2,000 Kcal.

Long Term Rehabilitation:

After immediate relief, we expect to shift our plans for long-term rehabilitation of the communities. Given that Teach For Nepal works in the schools, our focus will be in partnering with the communities to renovate, and reconstruct schools and create adequate learning environment.

In doing so, we will be mobilizing community assets and resources based on Sarvodaya philosophy and practices of shramadana (gift of labor).

Our Fellows can also play a critical role in psycho-social counseling and healing of children and community members that they teach. Therefore, we plan on doing training for trainers sessions with our Fellows on psycho-social counseling in collaboration with our local and international partners.

Q4: What are your organization's plans for post-earthquake service delivery?

[COMMENT FOR QUESTION 3]

We do not have a specific Nepal campaign and cannot accept location specific donations. As ShelterBox International conduct all operations, ShelterBox USA accepts grant requests from ShelterBox International [SBI] of which we re-grant 85% of donations designated for aid. SBI provides tracking numbers and grant reporting back to ShelterBox USA on how funds are utilized.

[ANSWER 4]

These are figures we received from ShelterBox International who conducts all ShelterBox field operations.

We had some propositioned stock in Nepal prior to the earthquake. These were immediately offered to the Nepalese health service for use as emergency clinics where hospitals had been destroyed or damaged. In addition to pre-positioned aid, the following is what we have provided or are planning to send as of Friday 8 May:

- 500 UN spec tents and 500 shelter kits have arrived in Kathmandu and been transported onwards to Sindhupalchowk where ShelterBox Response Team members (SRTs) are distributing them.
- 2,236 shelter kits from our propositioned store in Dubai. They will be distributed by our own SRTs or in conjunction with partner-NGOs partners on the ground.
- 1,452 ShelterBoxes will be sent in three consignments over the next two weeks. We will be working with partner-NGOs to target people who are leaving hospitals.

With this initial commitment, we aim to assist 25,600 beneficiaries. Our teams are finding that shelter kits to repair homes and build mobile temporary structures are the best response in Kathmandu while our tented shelter is most appropriate in the rural communities.

Our teams are increasing their requests regularly and these are the latest figures of committed aid.

Q2: Is your Organization soliciting donations to respond in some way to the Nepal Earthquake?

Q4: What are your organization's plans for post-earthquake service delivery?

World Renew's initial emergency response focused on locations where it had church and network presence. World Renew supported these existing churches and connections to help them provide 1 week of food aid to those most vulnerable in their communities. This food assistance was provided to 27 villages in 5 districts in two of the most severely affected zones.

- In Western Development Region's Gandaki Zone, Districts of Gorkha and Lamjung
- In Central Development Region's Bagmati Zone, Districts of Dhading, Nuwakot and Sindhupalchowk

For more efficiency, the second wave of emergency response is narrowing down its target to three districts, while expanding to wider villages; and adding another ward in each location.

During the second week of World Renew's response, World Renew staff members went to Nepal to assess needs and determine the best way to respond. Senior Project Manager, Grace Weibe left on May 5 and was joined by International Relief Managers Pete Diepersloot, Harry Bergshoeff and Annie Bergshoeff.

Based on initial assessments, World Renew's partner decided to concentrate on nine villages in two districts, one 3 hours north and one 3.5 hours North East of Kathmandu. World Renew also set up a disaster response base in Kathmandu alongside the relief team of its partner CRC church. World Renew Disaster Response now has a team of five on the ground in Nepal to serve the needs of earthquake affected Nepalese people. World Renew is reaching some very remote locations of villages. International Relief Manager Pete Diepersloot was able to attend this distribution in Sindhupalchowk District, VDC Yamuna Danda, ward No 5, in the village of Mul Bari Bingel, where 42 families receive emergency food assistance, (200-225 individuals).

Second wave of Emergency Items:

As World Renew moves into a longer-term recovery phase of the project it expects to provide a broader number of emergency items including:

- A two-week food supply of rice, dahl (lentils), oil and Nutrilite (a soya bean based product)
- Tarps, ropes and blankets
- Plastic buckets containing a hygiene kit comprised of bar soap for bathing toothpaste, 6 toothbrushes, feminine products and Detol antiseptic washing solution.

Water, Sanitation and Hygiene (WASH) Interventions

- 100 Sawyer mini filters will be distributed next week and 20 larger Sawyer water filter systems will be shared among 4 families
- A WASH Engineer will teach communities how to use the water filtration systems and will also provide training in hygiene practices to reduce health issues
